TROUBLESOME INDIANS.

An Attack on Settlers by Indians From the San Carlos Reservation.

From the Tucson Star.
A report reached Tucson yesterday that a dozen Indians from the San Carlos agency had attacked a mining camp about twenty-five miles south of Willcox, but were driven off. A gentleman from near there says that the Indians have been killing stock for him, and others, near there, but as he said, "They must live, and it is better for them to kill my stock than to kill me."

It is stated that but two days' rations per week are issued to them, and they are actually suffering for food, so can not be much blamed for their depredations on the ranchers near them. The Indians know that the soldiers at Fort Grant have their possessions packed up, preparatory to removing to Fort Riley, Kansas, and it is thought that during the confusion attending the transfer, etc., that they will get out and make serious trouble in the region of Sulphur Springs valley and the San Pedro. It is understood, however, that the troops from Fort Riley are to reach Fort Grant before the present force leaves there, so any serious outbreak can be quelled in short order.

BUCKHORN BASIN.

Quantities of Low Grade Ore in Sight.

Another Dividend-Payer Soon to be on the List of Mines in the Tombstone District.

From the Tombstone Prospector.

Joe Bignon and Tom Boynton came in yesterday from Buckhorn Basin in the Chiricahua mountains. Quite a mining impetus and considerable excitement in mining circles is reported from this district, several rich strikes having recently been made in these mountains and in this vicinity. Some six claims are owned and worked by Messrs Bignon and Boynton, and they report some extensive work done with satisfactory results. On one of the claims some 25 feet of work is done on a shaft and a rich stringer of some six or eight inches width was encountered which widens as work progresses. The extent and richness of this discovery is not yet known, but the ore shows free gold in large quantities. Assays of this ore are being made.

On another claim they have a mountain of low grade ore which is being worked. Some stringers of ore of a high grade are also found in this claim.

There is plenty of wood and water in the immediate vicinity of this mine, and with the erection of a mill to reduce the ore, it could be made a dividend payer of large returns.

We wish Messrs Bignon & Boynton the realization of their most ardent expectations in the outcome of their mines.

Messrs Abott & Co., are working on their claim in a vigorous and energetic manner, and the indications point to their having a bonanza.

Henry Fry is hard at work on his mine, and the ledge on which he has been working is now seven feet wide and carries a high percentage in gold.

Buckhorn Basin district promises to come to the front in Cochise county's mineral output, and we may soon look for a gold excitement in this vicinity that will be the equal of the new gold district near here which is showing such magnitude.

A RICH STRIKE.

One of the Most Important in Pinal.

The Ledge a Foot and a Half Wide Carrying a Very Rich Ore.

From the Florence Tribune.

Several years ago John D. Walker found some very rich mineral near the Buttes, but was unable afterwards to find the place. One day last week the same character of ore was discovered in place, only twelve miles east of town, and it is believed to be the identical ledge. Assays have been made which run as high as 4,140 ounces silver and 26 1/2 per cent copper. Two locations have been made on the ledge by Messrs J. M. Ochoa, A. F. Barker, John Harris and John Ruckelhausen. No little excitement has been caused by the rich strike. From all accounts it is one of the most important ever made in this immediate section. The ledge is represented to be a foot and a half wide and can be traced quite a distance. The ore is copper-silver-lead and the country formation is granite. It may be but a pocket, but a pocket of such ore is good enough. The lucky locators are to be congratulated.

Brownie Concert, Opera House, Thursday evening, May 16th.

The report about town is that J. S. Griffin is out of the bicycle business. He is simply out of the renting business. He sold it out so as to give more time to his agency. He is still ready to talk to anybody.

DISTRICT COURT.

The Hadsell Trial Set for Next Saturday.

Pleadings of Prisoners to Various Charges.

An Interesting Ruling in a Celebrated Water Suit.

A Claim of Priority of Appropriation Must be Supplemented by a Showing of the Claimant's Needs.

The most important events on the criminal side of the district court yesterday were the preliminary incidents in the case of B. A. Hadsell, arraigned the day before on a charge of incest. The defendant was brought in in the morning to plead. His attorney, Judge Early, asked for a continuance until the afternoon, that he might prepare a demurrer to the indictment, based on alleged irregularities in the manner of finding it. The demurrer was submitted at 2 o'clock without argument and was overruled. A plea of not guilty was entered, and Hadsell's trial was set for Saturday morning.

Rafael Valenzuela and Carlos Aldai pleaded not guilty to assault with deadly weapons and their trials were set for Thursday.

Patricio Leon, indicted as Patricio Morales, for rape, pleaded not guilty. He will also be tried on Thursday.

A plea of not guilty was entered by Leandro Imperial for assault with intent to murder and his trial was set for Friday.

A demurrer to the indictment was presented in the case of James Gorman and Harry Russell, charged with resisting an officer. The demurrer was based on the failure of the indictment to show that the defendants at the time of the arrest recognized the officer to be such. The demurrer was sustained and the matter was ordered to be resubmitted to the grand jury.

Later in the day another indictment was found against the prisoners in which the defect in the former was cured.

Robert Williams, who had pled guilty to burglary in the second degree, was sentenced to one year and nine months at Yuma.

On the civil side an important decision not finally determining however the matter at issue, was rendered in the case of Wormser vs. Hayden. The plaintiff had sued to restrain the defendant from using certain water upon agricultural lands. Under a previous arrangement the defendant was entitled to the use of the water for milling purposes allowing it to flow back into the river to be used again by the plaintiff for agricultural purposes. The defendant afterward diverted the water, about 1100 inches, into a canal and employed it in irrigation. The plaintiff alleged a priority of appropriation of the water and in a general way alleged his need of it.

The defendant demurred on the ground that the complaint was not specific. It failed to detail the needs of the plaintiff and did not offer a description of the lands under the plaintiff's canal, so leaving the court without means to ascertain the justice of the defendant's claim. Judge Baker sustained the demurrer saying:

"In view of the great necessity for water and the importance of the right to its use in this valley, I think when one asserts a right to its use against another he must show by clear and distinct averments every necessary fact to establish such right. He must not substitute his conclusions for essential and ultimate facts. Now, a man's right to the use of water is measured by his needs. The bare fact that he appropriated a given number of inches many years ago is not alone sufficient to insure a right to its present use. He must go further and show that the amount is essential and necessary to the purpose for which it was appropriated; that is, he must show his needs, and in the case of agricultural lands I think he should set out his acreage in order to show his needs."

Leave was granted the plaintiff to file an amended complaint.

In the case of Burris vs. Walker judgment was rendered for the defendant. Judgments for plaintiffs were given in the following cases: Wormell vs. estate of T. J. Trask, Steingger vs. Gregory, Steingger vs. Rigden and Gregory and Baker vs. J. E. Teeter et al.; also in the case of Daniel Hutchinson vs. Sharp et al., judgment for the plaintiff and $250 attorney's fees.

In the case of Alice May vs. the Bankers' Alliance, a California insurance company, the defendant filed a plea in abatement, denying the jurisdiction of the court. The plea was overruled and leave given to file an answer.

A late grand jury report ignored a charge of embezzlement against John J. Dadds, arrested last spring for selling or pawning a horse belonging to C. M. Sturges.
